GENERAL NEWS.

Another Great Flood in the Missouri River.

How Kelly's Victory is Looked upon at New York—Hayes already Weary of Private Life—The New York Socialists—Etc., Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

... April 19.—The river still continues ... feet ... [illegible] ... The ... [illegible] ... Union Pacific ... have ... been repaired. Lumbermen ... water out of their yards by ... they now expect to be flooded ... or eight inches more. ... the Union Pacific shops again. The river is comparatively stationary at Sioux City today, but will probably keep rising here until tomorrow afternoon. At Sioux City the water came up within one foot of the highest point and exceeded all previous rises except the one of a few days ago, and the same result is expected here. The river is falling above Sioux City. The sum of $775 was added today to the Omaha relief fund for the Missouri river sufferers, making a total of $2200 raised here for this purpose, and more will be subscribed. Mayor Boyd today telegraphed Acting Governor Hand at Yankton, D. T., to draw on him for $1500 of this fund, and more will follow.

Reports from Sioux City and Yankton give harrowing accounts of desolation wrought by floods and consequent distress of the people.

The Dakota Sufferers.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The produce exchange is moving in aid of the Dakota sufferers.

The Rock River Flood.

ROCKFORD, Ills., April 19.—Flood of Rock river is unprecedented. It has already thrown 1000 men out of employment and is still on the increase. The water power manufacturers will lose thousands of dollars as they were running to full capacity and this is their busiest season, they having large orders ahead. Lowlands on either side of the river, north and south of the city are several feet under water and occupants of houses are obliged to leave in boats for the city. Knowlton's machine and woodshops are submerged 3 feet and the Central furniture Co.'s basement is filled up and their large piles of lumber in danger of floating off. John P. Manny's shops are surrounded and N. C. Thompson's shops are 7 feet deep in water.

MILWAUKEE, April 19.—A special to the Republican from Inter-Ocean, Wisconsin, reports that nearly all the rivers are very high. The greatest damage has been done at Fon Du Lac and vicinity. Trains on all lines are more or less delayed, but not very seriously.

The New York Press on the Tammany Election.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Times, on the Tammany election, says: The Kelly ticket for sachems was elected by some fifty votes. When Kelly supremacy in the party is to be contested, some other field of action than Tammany Hall must be selected. As to the question of loss or weakness, that political morality would have gained by the substitution of say John Donohoe for John Kelly, there seems to be no particular reason to doubt that the Tammany society is a police of the kind of men who ought to rule it. From a republican standpoint, the perpetuation of Kelly's power is anything but a misfortune.

The Herald says: The manner in which the "Boss" Kelly majority was secured adds another chapter to the disgraceful record of the leaders of Tammany for years past. The hall was packed by a disreputable mob with heelers of the "Boss," who at an early hour created a scrimmage which was made to serve as an excuse for bringing in the police contrary to all the usages of the society.

The Tribune: From a republican point of view, the result of last night's election would seem to be fortunate, as it means a still further disintegration of the ... democratic ... [illegible]

The New York Socialists.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The New York branch of the International Society, at a secret meeting yesterday, ... [illegible] ... through the formality of trying ... Alexander III, for the murder of ... and her confederates. On such occasions it is said that all the regular forms of judicial proceeding are scrupulously observed. The accused ... [illegible] ... When the proceedings are ... [illegible] ... it is well known to the embassy at Washington ... as well as to the Russian consulate here ... [illegible] ... report ... [illegible] ... How these agents manage to do this sort of work without arousing the suspicion is a mystery, but some of the more shrewd of our New York detectives, who appear to know all about it, profess to be able to single them out on the wharves almost on any steamer day.

Hayes said to be Ready to Resume the Harness.

COLUMBUS, April 19.—Rather a strange rumor is current here today to the effect that ex-President Hayes already begins to tire of private life, and is at least willing to again enter politics if there should seem to be a general demand for his services. Ohio is said to be considerably agitated over the liquor question, and even republican journals expect a falling off from their usual vote next fall, owing to the disaffection of Germans on the beer question.

Boiler Makers Strike at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, April 19.—Boiler makers numbering 300 struck to-day for an agreement for one year on present wages, which range from $2 25 to $2 80 per day, and for time and a half time for repair jobs, double time for night work, triple time for Sunday, and quadruple time for Sunday nights. The contest is on a fixed state of wages.

Serious Horse Disease at Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The troubles of street car companies are not yet past. A peculiar and heretofore unknown disease has broken out among the horses. It begins with a swelling just below the fetlock, which, after a little, festers and becomes a discharging sore. It yields slowly to skillful treatment, but unless taken early the poisonous matter spreads itself upwards and infects the blood, causing death. The horses are, in any case, laid up two or three weeks. Veterinary surgeons attribute the disease to the long period of winter, during which the animals have been obliged to stand and travel in cold and wet slush. The disease has been slowly gaining ground for some days, and today a large proportion of the South Side companies' horses are under treatment, as also are 200 horses of the North Side Company, and 75 of the West Side Company. The base line reports that one horse has died and that forty are laid up. The express companies and individuals also suffer.

Valuable Waste Paper.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Yesterday, L. L. Gilbert, a prominent railroad lawyer of Pittsburg, while in a closet at a hotel here, dropped a package containing a mortgage for $30,300,000 executed April 1, by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. to Wistar Morris, Edmund Smith and Samuel J. Felton, all of Philadelphia, secured by $30,000 bonds of $1000 each and all bearing interest. The package was swept out as waste paper and thrown into an alley, where an Italian rag-picker threw it into a bag and sold it to a rag man. After a long and weary search to-day, Mr. Gilbert and police officers found the missing document, whose existence would have been kept a secret but for this circumstance.

Fire at Meriden.

MERIDEN, Mass., April 19.—A block of principal business houses burned last night; loss $250,000; insurance $125,000; incendiary.

Asylum Burned.

CAIRO, Ills., April 19.—At 1 this morning the mayor received a telegram announcing that the north wing of the southern insane asylum at Anna is burning and asking the assistance of the Cairo fire department. A special train with a steam fire engine were sent from here. The latest intelligence is that the north wing is consumed but the fire is thought to be under control. It is feared that two or three patients were burned.

ANNA, Ills., April 19.—Loss by fire in the insane asylum here last night, 150,000 dollars. Only one person, an inmate name Fergie, was burned to death, though several were scorched badly, including a brave citizen named Grace, who aided greatly in saving the life of the inmates against the will of the latter.

A Horrible Story.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—Particulars regarding the killing of her five children by Mrs. Nutt near Camden, Ark., are that the frenzied woman called her eldest child, a boy of 12 years old, from a field where he was plowing, knocked him on the head and threw him into a well, where she had previously thrown her four other children. Finding that one of the children was not drowned, but was clinging to the side of the well, she descended into the well and tore away its grasp and thrust it down into the water, thus completing her diabolical work.

New Hotel at St. Louis.

New Southern Hotel will be opened here shortly.

The Free Canal Question.

ALBANY, April 19.—The senate 15 to 10 ordered to third reading a bill for free canals.

An Important Decision.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Judge Wallace, of the U. S. ... today gave S. & W. Welch & Co. a verdict against ... Merritt for repayment of excessive duties paid on sugar. The decision is very important, as this was a test case to decide many others aggregating a million dollars. Importers claim that ... is not a perfect right to make sugars light or ... [illegible] ... Wallace ruled.

Mrs. Garfield at New York.

Mrs. Garfield held an informal reception in the hotel parlor today. A number of distinguished people were present.

Carmen's Strike at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—Street conductors and drivers have decided to demand a reduction in the hours of labor. They now have 12 to 14 hours on short ... Conductors get $2 ... per day. They want 12 hour days ... wages.

A Notorious Moonshiner Captured.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 19.—S. R. Redmond, a North Carolina moonshiner for whose capture a reward was offered, has been arrested by revenue officers after a fight in which Redmond was wounded.

Immigrants.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Immigrants landed today, 5075.

Suit for Damages.

NEW YORK, April 19.—W. F. C. Shanks has brought suit to recover $250,000 damages from the Nineteenth News Co. for circulating the "Truth," alleged to contain a libel against plaintiff. The jury gave a verdict of $2500.

Children Burned.

EVANSTON, Ills., April 19.—The house of a poor colored family was burned today. Peter Sweet ... rushed into the flames and bore out a child which died in his arms and another perished in the debris.

Cattle in the Northwest.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Reports to St. Louis journals indicate an unusually fine grass crop. Herds are entirely free from disease, except a case or two of blackleg among young fat stock. Many cattle are now very thin. Prospects are that more will be marketed and the quality of beef will be better than last season.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Suicides.

SAN JOSE, April 19.—R. Hoffman, lessee of the St. James hotel, committed suicide this morning at 8 o'clock by shooting himself in the head in a room of the hotel. Deceased was 58 years of age. Financial embarrassment the cause.

John Gartel, a native of Bremen, 42 years of age, committed suicide at the residence of Milliken Corners, Santa Clara Co., Sunday, by taking strychnine; intemperance the cause.

Police officer Dennison died today from the effects of strychnine taken with suicidal intent; cause domestic troubles.

Endorsed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The chamber of commerce at a regular meeting today endorsed bills for the prevention of adulteration of food recommended by the national board of trade.

Fine Crop and Business Outlook in California.

Voluminous dispatches from all parts of the state give a most favorable showing for the coming season. Reports with but very few exceptions speak of flattering harvest prospects, lively mercantile outlook and a strong feeling in real estate values. Building, manufacturing and other enterprises projected are being carried on to a very considerable extent. In short the general promise is substantial and growing prosperity in this city and state is better than for several years past. Although ... still prevails there seems to be ... that the future will be a favorable contrast with the recent past. The stock boom now in progress ... to the buoyancy of the feeling prevailing, although of course it is rather an effect than a cause.

Child Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Yesterday afternoon the ... train of the South Pacific Coast railroad, narrow gauge, going toward San Francisco, ran over Alfred E. Every, aged seven years, at the junction ... and ... avenues, Alameda, killing him instantly.

Mining News.

VIRGINIA, April 19.—The Yellow Jacket ... started Saturday night at midnight and ... the evening lowered the water twenty feet. This was without assistance of the Belcher pumps, which was stopped on account of a split ... Tomorrow the Belcher pumps will all be again in motion. All the Jacket apparatus is working finely. At the Combination shaft they are waiting ... sleeve, which will not arrive for a day or two.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Serious Row at Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, April 19.—Last night, during a quarrel between two rival lager beer brewers, F. H. Kleber struck Andrew Herter a severe blow, knocking him down. When Herter undertook to rise it was found that his right leg was broken in two places below the knee. He was removed to his home and the fractures reduced.

Passengers from the Sound for San Francisco.

PORT TOWNSEND, April 19.—The steamship Dakota left for San Francisco via Victoria at 3 P. M. today, with over 1000 tons of freight and the following passenger list: Mrs. Charles Steinweg, Dr. Cody and wife, John Nation wife and three children, G. W. Hall, Miss E. Nation, W. H. Hanson, Mrs. S. P. Jones, Mrs. A. C. Kaster, J. H. Slade, F. Hawkins, E. Gooding, G. F. Dearborn, J. L. Stevens, Mr. Stevenson, M. J. Levy and wife, Mrs. J. L. Surnock, S. D. Fitzgerald, A. Baker, J. M. Gladry, Thos. Clancy, Joseph Stuart, F. Taglebue, C. Gaither, Lieut. H. Lee Bailey and wife, Mrs. J. E. Pugh, Mrs. E. Calhoun, and 21 in the steerage.

A Great New Ocean Steamer.

[From the Parisian.]

The new steel steamship Servia, built for the Cunard Company, was successfully launched from their yard at Clydebank. The Servia is the largest vessel yet built for the mercantile marine, except the Great Eastern, and in point of completeness and elegance will not be surpassed by any vessel afloat. Her dimensions are: length, 530 feet; breadth, 52 feet; depth, 44 feet 9 inches; gross tonnage 8500 tons. A better idea of the huge size of the vessel will be gained from the following facts: Her cargo capacity will be equal to 6500 tons; with 1800 tons of coal and 1000 tons of water ballast, the vessel having a double bottom on the longitudinal bracket system. The anchor davits are 18 inches, and the chain cable pipe 22 inches in diameter. The propeller shaft weighs 26 tons, and the propeller, boss and blades, which are made of Vickers steel, are 38 tons in weight. The machinery consists of three cylinder compound surface condensing engines, one cylinder being 72 inches and two 100 in. diameter, with a stroke of piston of 6 feet 6 inches. It is anticipated that the indicated horse-power will amount to 10,500. There are in all 7 boilers, 6 of which are double and one single ended, and all are made of steel, with corrugated furnaces, the total number of furnaces being 39. The Servia will probably be ready to sail from Liverpool on her first voyage to New York on the 9th of July. Captain Theodore Cook, now on the Gallia, will be her commander.

Recent Progress in Domestic Science.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

It is unhealthy to wear your boots in the house after 1 o'clock A. M. The common plan is to remove them in the hallway, but many of our most experienced husbands prefer the front steps. Always take a boot in each hand when going up stairs. This plan gives you two shots at the cat after stepping on her. Never say anything to your wife on these occasions except "yes" and "no." Eating cloves impedes the speech.

Never compel your wife to get up first and build the fire. If she doesn't do it of her own accord, go to sleep again.

When your daughter gets big enough to have gentlemen visitors, give up the parlor to them cheerfully. It is much cheaper to let the dog bite them as they start for home than to scold the girl until she cries, and then have to buy her a sealskin sacque as a souvenir of your idiocy.

Always remember your wedding day, and try to mark the occasion by some little act showing that you remember it. Coming home half full will ... signalize the anniversary in a marked but inexpensive manner.

Bring your sons up to some occupation that will enable them to get a living when thrown upon their own resources. Nothing makes a young man so self-reliant as having a trade of his own. In Cincinnati ... frequently make $10 a day.

To afford immediate relief in Asthma, try Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, which acts promptly by overcoming the spasmodic contraction of the wind-tubes, and by causing the ejection of the mucus which clogs them. For Whooping Cough, Croup and Hoarseness, this medicine is equally beneficial; while for all Pulmonary and Bronchial Disorders, it is both a palliative and a curative, and a sure and prompt remedy for all stubborn Coughs and Colds.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Garfield Intimates his Purpose of Calling an Extra Session.

Congressman Jorgensen of Virginia gives his Views and Throws some Plain Talk to George C. Gorham—Black John Blurts his ... Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—... [illegible] ... this week ... extra session ...

Congressman Jorgensen to George Gorham.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Yesterday's National Republican ... delegation of Virginia ... [illegible]

Today's ... Jorgensen addressed a letter ... which was refused publication by the Republican. Jorgensen ... [illegible] ... that the Virginia republicans should maintain their party organization and not merge it with any other. He says the state central committee should call a republican convention, whose province it would be, through the regularly authorized representatives of the republicans throughout the state, to determine what would be the most conducive to the interests of the republican party, its success in the future and maintenance of its principles, whether that should be an alliance with the readjusters or not. The latest information that I have of Senator Mahone's view is that the republicans should amalgamate or fuse themselves with his readjusters. This I look upon as suicidal to the future of our party in the state of Virginia and a monstrous proposition. He points out that the republicans at the last election cast ... votes and the readjusters only ... and expresses his opinion that no sane republican of honest conviction ... in view of these figures, ask the republicans of Virginia to abandon their organization, amalgamate with the readjuster and elect the readjuster candidates by their votes.

Jorgensen concludes his letter to Gorham as follows:

And now, sir, I should like to know who are you that you should ... at a ... of ... and ... find fault with me with failing to perform my duty to the republican party of Virginia or of the nation. It seems to me that your assurance is almost boundless, taking into consideration the fact that I have only been anything during my lifetime but a republican ... [illegible] ... its principles under all circumstances, and almost going through hell in maintaining them, and through dangers and persecutions in upholding them that you never dreamed of. That you should be the one to attack me thus, passes my understanding, for are you not the very same man who only two short years ago ... [illegible] ... to destroy the republican party ... [illegible]

The Political Situation in Mississippi.

[illegible] ... whites ... The colored men ... [illegible] ... as leaders, young men of nerve ... untried ability and untested strength ... who have always been ... and who have never appeared prominently before the public as republicans, owing to the fact that they have never held or wanted office and therefore have been a little modest in asserting their political beliefs in a state where it has been ... to be known as a republican. Such men starting out with ... records and backed strongly by influential white friends, would disarm Bourbonism of its worst weapon and lay the foundation for ascendency.

A Paragraph of Virginia History.

Washington special: A prominent Virginian says that during the last presidential campaign the democrats made Mahone several offers. Last May, only two or three days before the funder democrats held their state convention, Chairman Barnum of the national committee induced Mahone to meet him in Washington for a conference. Barnum was in hysterics on account of his fear that Tilden would not get the Virginia delegation to the Cincinnati convention. He asked General Mahone if Tilden would not carry Virginia if nominated. Mahone replied that he would, although he was very unpopular in the state. Then Barnum proposed that Mahone should try to capture the funder convention and send a set of Tilden delegates to the Cincinnati convention, and offered to furnish funds for this purpose. Mahone refused to make the attempt or have anything whatever to do with the Bourbon funders.

Trouble between Gorham and Jorgensen.

Congressman Jorgensen of Virginia called at the Republican office last evening spoiling for a fight. He had a card which he wished inserted in answer to reflections on his course toward Virginia liberals. George C. Gorham, editor in chief, refused to give the card place, whereupon Jorgensen said that he denounced Gorham as a slanderer and a dirty dog. He was hustled out of the office by his friends, who were uncertain as to where the matter would terminate, and Jorgensen took the card to Stilson Hutchins' paper, the Post, where it appears this morning.

Official Appointments.

The president has nominated Gen. James Longstreet, now minister to Turkey, U. S. marshal of Georgia, and Philip H. Emerson associate justice of the supreme court of Utah.

The Constitution Safe.

The frigate Constitution has been heard from. She has had severe weather but is all right.

Frank Page's Views.

Congressman Page yesterday said that it would be cowardly on the republican party not to support Mahone, as he has announced to the public on the floor of the senate that he is in favor of a free ballot and a fair count. On this liberal but just principle alone, independent of any local differences, the republicans of the country and Virginia should unite with Mahone in opposition to bourbon rule. Mahone represents opposition to those principles against which the republican party has been contending.

The Democrats' Candidate.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The World's Washington special says that the republicans were given to understand in the senate today that an alternative will be presented to them in December of throwing Riddleberger overboard or casting their votes against a republican union general bearing wounds received in the war, a gentleman of high personal character and a clear, gallant record, who will be nominated by a republican for the office of sergeant-at-arms, and for whom every democrat will vote.

Senatorial Courtesy.

The Herald's Washington special, after describing what is known as senatorial courtesy and the long-timed efficacy of it, says: If this report which comes from southern senators is correct, as it probably is, it would seem that it will insure the rejection among others of Robertson to the collectorship of New York, whose confirmation has been hitherto considered certain by the administration. It is held by senators who favor and are part of this combination that the president, while he can nominate to office, can appoint only by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and that the senate may, if a majority chooses, reject the nomination on the request of the two senators from the state in which the nominee is to act, even without reference to committee or any further question raised. They hold that the power over appointments given to the senate to exercise conjointly with the president may be rightly referred to the two senators from the state, because they are ... to be most familiar with the residents of their own states and with the wishes of their people.

SHAKESPEARE: HIS MIND AND ART. By ... Dowden ... [illegible]

Dr. Dowden ... with an inquiry after the ... of the writer, and traces the development and growth of his intellect and character ... [illegible] ... Why these two facts were so is not answered by Dr. Dowden. Among his contemporaries were such illustrious men as Raleigh, Spenser, Bacon, Coke and Drake, yet there is no evidence that he knew any of them, or, in fact, any other of the statesmen, scholars, or artists of his time. Another point on which Dr. Dowden will be taken to task is his disposition to make Shakespeare's historical characters portraits of the originals. This is not generally accepted as having been the dramatist's intention, nor would it be possible for history to be accepted as a faithful portrait gallery of its chief actors. Yet what we like best in Dr. Dowden's thoughtful and eloquent study is not what he says about Shakespeare generally, about his mind and art as he puts it, but what he says about his work, or, more exactly, about certain of his characters, the secrets of whose personality are revealed to him.

SCHILLER AND HIS TIMES. By Johannes Scherr. Translated from the German by Elizabeth McClellan ... with portrait ... Philadelphia, ... Nelder.

This is not a new biography of the great German poet and ardent advocate of freedom and progress. It was first published in Germany some twenty years ago, but this is the first time it has been published in the English language. It is a critical picture of Schiller's life and character, and a discriminating study of his works. The author's style is graceful, animated and interesting, and he has adhered to historical facts without soaring into the realms of fancy to make of his hero a demigod. He gives us a picture of an epoch on which, in spite of its shadows, no German can look back without a feeling of genuine pride and from which all may draw valuable lessons. The book is not a mere biography, but outlines with the narrative certain parts of his familiar correspondence, takes up his works from a critical and aesthetic point of view, glances at the works of Goethe, Hegel, Kant and other leaders of German thought, and even aims at the ... a history of culture. It is written in the slow, discursive German fashion, which is favorable to thoroughness of information, but is scarcely perspicuous. The lover of Schiller will, however, linger with pleasure over those details and grow still more familiar with Körner, Hoffe and the Frau von Stein. Though the work attempted is perhaps too great for the necessary limitations, it will add much to the knowledge of the student of Schiller and of German literature.

Long Journeys of Freight Cars.

[From the Chicago Inter Ocean.]

A paragraph in an eastern paper gives what purports to be the history of a freight car, which has been from Boston to San Francisco seven times, from Boston to Galveston once, from New York to Denver four times, from New York to New Orleans twice, besides numerous short trips to and from intermediate points. The man who is not familiar with railroad management is always puzzled to know how the stray cars that travel such long journeys ever get home, but the system of exchanging receipts is simple, and every railroad has a man whose business it is to look out where every car belonging to the line is. When a car is lost ... [illegible] ... Some of the trunk lines ... the cars and ... [illegible] ... the Hon. James F. Wilson of Iowa and introduced ... in 1866. Some of the railroad companies objected ... and many of them were favorable. Mr. Wilson argued that public commercial policy demanded transportation of freight and passengers from one state to another without change or delays, breaking of bulk and the attendant ... loss of time, and that it was the duty of congress to facilitate commerce. He held that the wisdom of the law would be justified, and it has been.

THE PUBLIC LEVEE AGAIN.

A small pot is soon hot. And Mr. William Reid is again in an excited mood. Yesterday we printed in our usual report of proceedings of the supreme court an announcement of a decision affirming the opinion of Judge Stott in the case of Mr. Reid's railway company against the city of Portland to condemn the public levee for the use of said company. Mr. Reid is in great rage about this publication, and says his company had no suit in the supreme court against the city of Portland for such purpose. This is rather a strange statement for the president of a company to make regarding a suit which his own company began in the circuit court and took up to the supreme court on appeal. Last June the railway company of which Mr. Reid was manager, by a complaint sworn to by himself, attempted to condemn the levee for his railroad. After filing the third complaint in that suit, judgment was given against his company in the circuit court. From that judgment his company appealed to the supreme court; and this is the case in which a decision was rendered on Monday last affirming the decision of the court below, the court holding that the grant of power to take property appropriated to public uses can not be exercised in such a manner as would obstruct or subvert such public uses, and that the appropriation sought to be made by the company would be such obstruction. At the last session of the legislature the company, by its agents and lobbyists, got a bill through that body giving it the property in question. This act was and still is resisted by the city; and in February last the city filed a complaint for an injunction upon the company, alleging that said act was unconstitutional and void, and that its passage was obtained by misrepresentation, fraud and corruption. Thereupon Judge Stott granted the injunction as prayed, when Mr. Reid's company had the case transferred to the United States court under act of congress in such cases made and provided. On giving a bond the company was allowed to use the levee for operating a track and side track, and not otherwise; and the company is now under such bond, as adjudged, to remove these upon final decision against it. This is the legal status of Mr. Reid's company upon the public levee; yet in his letter he virtually, and in a boastful manner, claims to have won a victory tantamount to complete and final possession.

Mr. Reid in his excitement can not see that we simply published a record of the supreme court as a matter of news, as we are accustomed to do every day. Our object, he says, was to lead country readers who live on the company's railway lines to believe that the company was "not to get into the city of Portland at the levee." We pardon Mr. Reid's infirmities of temper; else we might remark that only a man of infinite littleness, one who never thinks of anything but small and underhand tricks, could jump to so foolish and false a conclusion. Our sole object was simply to present a court record, like that furnished every day by our Salem reporter as a piece of news. Again, he says that the press of Portland constantly "misrepresents" his company, and intimates that this alleged wrong is done in the interest of other corporations. THE OREGONIAN, we may remark, is not responsible for what other papers say, and Mr. Reid, therefore might as well have omitted his reference to the Standard in a communication to us. That paper may answer for its own statements. But THE OREGONIAN, speaking for itself, will take occasion to inform Mr. Reid that it is quite as independent an institution as his United railway or his mortgage bank, and that "other corporations" have no kind of control over it. It has not opposed Mr. Reid's railway in the interest of "other corporations." It has not opposed Mr. Reid's railway at any point or in any matter whatever, save only in the attempt of his company to take by a process as morally wrong as robbery itself property which does not rightfully belong to it. We have been glad to witness the construction of the narrow-gauge roads. They promise much for the accommodation and development of the country. But we have opposed the company's attempted seizure of the property of the city of Portland, and would equally oppose any attempt by any other railway to seize our parks or other public property. The attempt by Mr. Reid's company in this matter is not worthy of honorable men. He has all along held out the absurd pretense that the narrow-gauge railway would be excluded from the city unless it could get the public levee. The simple, easy and honest way would have been to buy grounds for terminal purposes, as other railway companies have done, and as others yet will do. The inspiration of this seizure of the levee was to take advantage of a supposed defect of title to get a valuable property without paying for it. We write with all necessary plainness about this matter, since Mr. Reid in his letter has not spared words which go even to the point of insult, and since it is right furthermore on the general principle of right, to oppose and denounce any scheme of covetousness which takes the form of an attempt to seize the property of others. No attempt for which the story of Naboth's vineyard suggests a parallel or any single point of comparison, is likely to be received without protest so long as the principle of honorable conduct remains a guiding force among men.

ATTEMPT BY THE C. P. R. R. CO. TO DEFRAUD THE GOVERNMENT.

General auditor of railroad accounts, French, believes that the Central Pacific Company is deliberately pursuing a policy whose main purpose is to defraud the government, and in explaining this view certainly makes a strong case against Mr. Huntington and his associates. Under the Thurman act 25 per cent. of the net earnings of the Central Pacific road must be paid into the treasury of the United States for the company's sinking fund. This payment has always been resisted by Mr. Huntington, and he has heretofore complied with the law only because there was no way of escaping it. Within the last few weeks, since completion of the southern line, which is partly owned by the managers of the Central Pacific and upon which and its through connections it holds exclusive leases, the problem of cheating the sinking fund has been easily accomplished. This new line owes no dues to the government, and its entire profits go to the men who own the Central Pacific. It is manifestly to their interest that business should go over this line and thus pay them its full profit, rather than over the old line, of whose earnings one fourth must go to the sinking fund. It is the policy of Mr. Huntington and his associate managers to make contracts between their two lines so that the profits may fall to the southern, and without subtraction to themselves. It is hardly necessary to say that the moral features of the case have little consideration with these acute gentlemen. The many small roads which are owned by the Central Pacific are now employed as feeders to the southern line, which has the benefit of all their work while the charges of operating them are paid by the old company. The two main lines running under one management pay enormous profits. While in fact the old line does the most and the best paying business, the new is credited with much the larger share of the joint earnings. These facts have been presented to Attorney General MacVeagh, and he has instructed the United States attorney at San Francisco to bring suit before the court of this district to compel the Central Pacific Company [illegible] its leases [illegible] transact over its own line the business which properly belongs to it. This suit will be commenced at once, and Auditor French will come out to San Francisco [illegible] of statements [illegible] company in New York, to compel payment of alleged deficiencies in the annual sinking fund deposits for 1879 and 1880. The claim of the government in this action is based upon Mr. French's accounts, which show a deficiency of $1,330,000 in the payment made February, 1880, for the previous year, and another of $1,000,000 in the payment made last February for 1880. Another object of the last named suit is to explode an absurd theory put forward by the company that the government's share of the earnings of the road were no greater in 1880, when these earnings amounted to $20,000,000, than for the previous year, when they fell short of this sum by $3,000,000.

BENJAMIN DISRAELI.

In January, 1846, a striking figure, as the author of "A History of our Own Times" expresses it, intervened in a languishing debate in the house of commons. Sir Robert Peel, the prime minister, had just finished a long and labored speech in which he had entered into explanations of the manner in which his mind had been brought into a change on the subject of protection and free trade. The question at issue was the question of cheap food for the consumers of England as against the protective system upheld by and for the landed proprietors. The time was ripe for just such a character as Benjamin Disraeli, and just such a speech as he then delivered. It is rare in parliamentary history to find an example like this of a sudden turn given to a whole career by a timely speech. From that hour Disraeli became the real leader of the tory squires; from that moment his voice gave the word of command to the conservative party. Since then, a period of thirty-five years, he has been a colossal figure in British politics. At the time when he thus leaped into preëminence and fame he was already forty-one years of age and had been in parliament nine years. He first entered the house of commons in 1837, when about thirty-two. But during his career of nine years he had done nothing at all noteworthy. He had made frequent attempts as a speaker but had failed again and again. Indeed a contemptuous opinion was formed of him by the assembly which he afterwards came to rule. His dress was of the Dick Swiveller style; his manner was intensely theatrical; his gestures were wild and extravagant. His style of speaking was bombastic, and his rhetoric constantly degenerated into vulgarity. He had, indeed, before this, given indications of remarkable literary talent. His novel, "Vivian Grey," published when he was in his twenty-third year, was full of the evidences of a fresh and brilliant ability. But up to the time of his sudden rise to eminence through his lucky speech on a lucky occasion in answer to Sir Robert Peel, his life had been "an almost uninterrupted career of follies and defeats." He was looked upon almost universally as an eccentric and audacious adventurer, who was kept from being dangerous by the affectations and absurdities of his conduct. His first speech in the house excited the most pitiless derision; and yet it was a clever speech, full of point and odd conceits, very like in style and structure to many of the speeches which in later years won him the most extravagant applause.

When his fame began he passed at once and by an easy leap from a radical of the most advanced views to the status of a romantic tory. Great as his authority in this party became, and powerful as his influence grew to be in the affairs of his country, he was always a showy rather than a solid man. All his life there clung to him a sort of reputation of being a whimsical, self-confident and feather-headed adventurer. His strength lay chiefly in his amazing powers of retort and sarcasm. He became a great parliamentary orator because he could employ the kind of eloquence and argument that now tell most readily on parliament. Fortunately for his fame and success, he came in when the days of elaborate oratory were going by, and when pungent epigram, sparkling paradox, rattling attack and vivid repartee were becoming the most attractive part of the eloquence of the house of commons. Though so long the leader of his party in the house of commons, a member of several cabinets and twice prime minister, it can hardly be said that the sober judgment of his countrymen ever really approved his statesmanship. Much of his success was due to divisions among his opponents. Whenever they presented a united front he was always beaten. The many novels which he published during his career were chiefly designed either to set forth a literary man's notions of politics, or to satirize the writer's opponents, and he rarely failed to produce strokes which were recognized and applauded. But a reputation so founded cannot be permanent. The earl of Beaconsfield has left no work which will have a monumental place in literature or statesmanship. His fame, instead of growing like that of Burke or Pitt, will in a few years subside into an echo, and then into a tradition.

The Atlantic and Pacific railroad, which is rapidly pushing its work, will complete a line connecting San Francisco with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe at Albuquerque, New Mexico, within eighteen months. The road is now completed and in running order from Albuquerque west to Fort Wingate, a distance of 170 miles. The roadway for the second or central division, from Fort Wingate to the Big Colorado is now being graded. The western division will extend from the Big Colorado to San Francisco, and the entire length of the line from Albuquerque to San Francisco will be 570 miles, over comparatively light grades and over a country where snow blockades will never occur. Of the 170 miles already constructed, four sections of twenty-five miles each, amounting to 100 miles, have been examined by the railroad commissioner of the United States, and accepted by the government, for the road is being constructed under authority of an act of congress of April 20, 1870. The completion of this road will make as short, if not shorter line to New York than by the Central and Union Pacific, and will greatly decrease the traveling time, owing to its absence of heavy grades and snow obstructions. This road has no connection whatever with the Central Pacific.

The wheat growers of California, recently in session at San Francisco, charged that shippers of grain from that port mix good wheat with inferior grades and reduce the standard, to the injury of California wheat in the English market. The same complaint will lie against those who handle Oregon wheat. More care should be taken to keep good wheat separate from the poorer grades. The fault of mixing all kinds of wheat together lies upon farmers, local buyers, warehousemen and shippers, though doubtless upon some of these classes in greater degree than others. A San Francisco paper puts the complaint thus: "The price of California wheat has kept steadily going down, owing to its deterioration in quality, while the price of Chile wheat, for example, has as steadily kept appreciating in the Liverpool market, owing to the improving quality. English grain buyers pointed out this fact last season." Our wheat ought to be carefully graded, as in Chicago and other markets. It is quite astonishing that this has been postponed so long.

The losses of cattle in Nebraska during the winter just past were enormous. At the opening of winter there were estimated to be half a million head upon the Nebraska ranches, worth an average of $15 per head [illegible] parallel to this. Our winter closed with February, while in Nebraska it has been still snowing and freezing far into April.

"My grandfather," says Benjamin Disraeli in his introduction to an edition of his father's writings published in 1848, "my grandfather, who became an English denizen in 1748 was an Italian descendant from one of those Hebrew families whom the inquisition forced to emigrate from the Spanish peninsula at the end of the fifteenth century, and who found a refuge in the more tolerant territories of the Venetian republic. His ancestors had dropped their Gothic surnames on their settlement in the Terra Firma, and grateful to the God of Jacob who had sustained them through unprecedented trials and guarded them through unheard of perils, they assumed the name of Disraeli, a name never borne before or since by any other family, in order that their race might be forever recognized."

If Senator Conkling will carefully read the newspapers from his state it is hardly possible that some of the conceit may be taken out of him. About his claim to control the appointment of a collector for the port of New York, the Tribune says: "There is not a state of the union that is largely interested in the administration of this immense trust, and yet there are people who say that the control belongs to one gentleman as absolutely as the domestic economy of his own house at Utica. No such congestion of power in the hands of one man has ever been permitted in this country and it would be an evil omen if the senate should now sanction a pretension so preposterous."

Punch was long a satirist of Disraeli. Many years ago it represented him on one occasion as a [illegible] with papers in his bag labeled "M. Thiers' Speech on Marshal Gouvion St. Cyr." The cartoon was entitled "A Stump Orator with Bone from the French." The sting was in the exposing of the fact that Disraeli in his speech on the death of Wellington, had cribbed largely from Thiers' panegyric on the French marshal, St. Cyr. This jeu d'esprit appeared at the same time:

> In sounding great Wellington's praise,
> Dizzy's grief and his truth both appear,
> For a great flood of tears (Thiers) he lets fall
> Which were certainly meant for sincere (St. Cyr).

Beaconsfield is a town of perhaps 2000 inhabitants, 23 miles northwest of London. Disraeli's wife, in acknowledgment of the political services of her husband, was made viscountess of Beaconsfield in 1868. He himself declined an elevation to the peerage at that time. This honor, however, he accepted in 1876, receiving the title of earl of Beaconsfield. The title once intended for Burke had come to the author of "Vivian Grey." Beaconsfield was for some years the residence of Burke, who was buried there. It is likewise the burial place of the poet Waller.

All the papers of San Francisco are discussing the future of their city as though they distrusted it. The Chronicle, however says: "San Francisco, though not as close to Japan as Puget sound, nor to Australia and Hawaii as Manzanillo or Guaymas, has the best location, the capital, the start and if her merchants do not fall asleep she will centralize the bulk of the commerce eastward and hold it forever. Anything that helps along the growth of towns north of us or south of us will help us in the end."

The influx of immigrants into the United States is remarkable and the ratio is likely to increase rather than diminish, because of the continued state of unrest in European countries. It is now believed that the number of arrivals for the current year will exceed 500,000. Castle Garden records show that during the past thirty-five years there have reached this country by the port of New York 2,113,818 Irish and 2,000,371 German immigrants.

Seven ships of the French North Atlantic squadron are expected to participate in the celebration of the Yorktown centennial next October, and two vessels of the French navy will come from Havre, bringing a number of prominent French officials. Congress has appropriated $20,000 to defray the expenses of entertaining the French guests and visitors.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, 1881.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Indications for northern Pacific coast region partly cloudy or cloudy weather with rain. For California, clear weather.

CITY.

TO TAKE COMMAND.—Capt. Nat. Lane, of East Portland, leaves this morning for Victoria to take command of the steamer Gertrude, which is to be run this season on the Stickeen river from Fort Wrangel, Alaska, to Glenora, British Columbia. During the past two years Captain Lane had charge of the steamboat Cassiar on the same route, and the competent manner in which he handles a boat while making the always difficult passage on the above named river renders his services of more than ordinary value to those employing him. The owner of the Cassiar came to Portland last week to secure Captain Lane for the present season, but only to find that Mr. Grant of the opposition line had got ahead of him and closed a contract with Capt. Lane, giving him $2 a day more than heretofore paid. The Gertrude is now at Victoria and will next week leave with a large freight for the Cassiar mines, and will be kept running on the Stickeen river until October next.

A HEAVY CHARGE.—The Telegram of yesterday says: "On Saturday last J. W. Yeomans, who lives at Clackamas station, on the O. & C. R. R., was engaged in blasting stumps out of a lot near his residence. Late in the afternoon he put a heavy charge into a large stump which stood some eight or ten rods from the house, and exploded it with telling effect. A large section of the stump—nearly one half—was blown out, and striking the end of his story and a half residence, mashed a hole into it considerably larger than the stump. It then rebounded, striking a picket fence some three rods away and demolishing a section of it. Mr. Yeoman's family—a wife and two children—were in the room near where the stump struck, and although they were not hurt, they will hereafter go to the neighbor's when stump blasting is in progress."

ANNIVERSARY ENTERTAINMENT.—The Odd Fellows of Portland and East Portland will give a grand anniversary entertainment at New Market Theater on the evening of Tuesday, April 26th. The proceeds of the entertainment will be donated to the Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home and Educational Fund—certainly a most laudable and deserving object. Among those who will participate in the vocal and instrumental concert may be mentioned Miss Ellen Coursen, the young and talented San Francisco prima donna, Mr. M. O. Lownsdale, Mr. Edgar Coursen, the violinist, and other well known Portland amateurs. A grand ball will conclude the evening's performance.

THE BOAT PROCESSION.—A meeting of the representatives of the Willamette Rowing Club and Portland Rowing Association, was held at the rooms of the former club last evening, when the programme of Saturday's boat procession was arranged, which will be published in Friday's issue. Mr. Wm. J. Ball, of the Portland Boat House, intimated that he intended not to hire out his sail boats during the time of the procession, and Mr. LaChapelle of the "Pioneer Boat House," no doubt, when asked, will do likewise. About thirty boats will take part in the procession, and a band has been hired for the occasion. The time of starting was fixed at 5 o'clock P. M.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL.—At present 50 patients are under treatment at St. Vincent's Hospital. Very few serious cases are reported, the only hopeless ones mentioned being two cases of consumption. One of the sufferers from this last is Capt. J. H. Gist, for many years a river pilot on the Upper Willamette, who is very low and will scarcely survive beyond a few weeks. His acquaintances will be pleased to learn that he received excellent care from the humane Sisters who have charge of that institution.

BIDS FOR DEPOTS.—The Oregonian Railway Company advertises this morning for bids for depots at St. Paul, French Prairie, Macleay, Waldo Hills, West Stayton, North Santiam, South Santiam, Crabtree Fork, Long's, Lawson and Brownsville on the east side division; and White House, Oswego, Bridgeport, Middleton, Dayton, Lafayette, Dallas, Monmouth and Luckiamute on the west side. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the general superintendent.

BOLD ROBBERY.—About eight o'clock last night, Wan Hung and another Chinaman whose name is unknown, knocked down Chung John, one of the actors at the Chinese theater, on Alder street near Second, and robbed him of $75 in gold and silver. They also tried to take a diamond ring from his finger in which they were not successful. Wan Hung was arrested by officer Joe Day about midnight and lodged in the city jail. His accomplice has not yet been apprehended.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Cornelius Murray was examined yesterday in the police court on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. Murray is the individual who stabbed Frank Mullen in the shoulder and hand Sunday evening. He was held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $500, and failing to furnish the bonds required, was committed to the county jail.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.—Examinations in practice of the students of the medical department of Willamette university was held yesterday. To-day the class will be examined in obstetrics and Friday in anatomy. Graduating exercises will take place at Taylor street M. E. church next Monday evening. Prof. T. W. Hill, of Bishop Scott grammar school, will deliver the valedictory.

SINKING AN ARTESIAN WELL.—A force of men is engaged in sinking an artesian well on Ainsworth block, corner of Third and Oak streets, and the work is being pushed forward as rapidly as the nature of the soil will allow. The well is ten inches in diameter. The boring will be continued until the water flows over the top of the well.

P. T. COMPANY.—The People's Transportation Company's new steamer Washington, is now on the Portland-Vancouver line, under command of Chas. T. Troup. She will leave Portland at 3:30 P. M. and Vancouver 8 A. M., daily. For freight or passage inquire on board, or on the wharf at the foot of Morrison street.

SEVERELY INJURED.—At New Tacoma, Monday evening, Mr. Peter Fairweather, was knocked down by a car with such violence as to fracture his shoulder and break several ribs at their junction with the breast bone. His injuries are very painful and he will be laid up for several weeks.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At a recent election held by the communicants of Grace (Episcopal) church at Astoria, the following named gentlemen were chosen vestrymen for the ensuing year: A. Van Dusen, S. D. Adair, W. B. Adair, Dr. Jay Tuttle, P. Anderson, N. D. Raymond and C. J. Trenchard.

GRAND JURY ORDERED.—Judge Deady in the U. S. district court yesterday, ordered that 23 grand jurors be drawn. These jurors are required to appear in court on Wednesday, May 15th. The names will be drawn at once and given to the U. S. marshal, who will proceed to summon them.

AFTER THE BASE BALLISTS.—A numerously signed petition was presented to the East Portland board of trustees at their last meeting, asking to have the playing of base ball games within the city limits prohibited by ordinance. The petition was read and referred to the proper committee.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS.—Yesterday afternoon Johnny T. Williams and Sam Stephens paid a visit to Columbia slough with their fowling pieces. Success smiled benignantly on their efforts, and in a few hours the brace of nimrods brought down 20 fine summer wild geese.

WILL PROBABLY MEET.—An exchange says: "Bishop Morris of Oregon and Bishop Tuttle of Idaho will probably meet in Pendleton on May 15th, and will probably hold services together here on that date. They will both be on their visits to their Episcopacy at that time."

ASSIGNEE SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—The assignee of the bankrupt estate of C. M. Carter sells to-day, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the door of the U. S. district courthouse, some desirable land situated near Hillsboro, Washington county; also a tract near Gaston.

A LARGE DOCKET.—The docket to be disposed of at the next term of the state circuit court for Multnomah promises to be unusually large. Already 130 cases have been filed and before the opening of the term as many more will be placed on the docket.

THE LAST DAY.—Attorneys who have suits in the state circuit court which will be tried at the regular term, should not forget that Friday the 22d will be the last day for service. All papers should be filed on or before that day in the county clerk's office.

PATENTS.—Last week a patent was issued to John Gates of Portland, Oregon, for his steam and hydraulic steering apparatus for steam vessels; also a patent to William C. Eckels of Myrtle creek, Douglas county, for a fruit dryer.

ORDER OF CITATION.—The following proceeding was had yesterday before Judge Rice in chambers: "In the matter of the guardianship of Louise Mesick, a minor, ordered that citation issue on petition to sell realty."

CASE CONTINUED.—The case of the state vs. Henry Henrichsen, now in custody on a charge of grand larceny, was to have been investigated in police court yesterday. The case, however, was continued until to-day.

GONE EAST.—Mr. H. C. Shelden of East Portland formerly of the firm of Shelden and Neppach, was a passenger on the steamer Oregon. Mr. Shelden goes to Vermont—probably to reside permanently.

APPOINTED ROUTE AGENT.—A. B. Cox, who was appointed to a position in the mail service as route agent between Portland and Roseburg on the 18th, has entered upon the discharge of his duties.

GONE TO SEA.—The steamship Oregon, which arrived at Astoria on Monday, did not cross to sea until yesterday afternoon. She took on a large quantity of freight, and hence the detention.

WILL LOCATE.—The Pendleton exchange says that Judge J. H. Reed of Portland has concluded to remain with them, and has secured an office in the new brick over the drug store.

NOTICE.—Final and dress rehearsal of the "Pirates of Penzance" to-night at 7:30. Every member of chorus and orchestra in their places not later. No spectators.

RECEPTION POSTPONED.—We are authorized to say that the reception proposed for Bishop Paddock at St. Helen's Hall this evening is temporarily postponed.

Remember that Child's drug store is on the corner of First and Morrison sts.

Spring lamb, very choice, at Heitman's.

BRIEF NOTES.

The dust was nicely laid yesterday.

"Pirates of Penzance" to-morrow evening.

The Fourth street railroad is finely ballasted.

Regular meeting of the common council this evening.

The steamer Columbia will sail hence next Saturday morning.

Mails by steamer are rather light. They arrive regularly overland.

FROM ALASKA.

ARRIVAL OF THE SITKA STEAMER AT PORT TOWNSEND.

The Situation of the Takou Mines Defined—The Richest Assays Ever Made on the Pacific Coast—The Weather at Sitka.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., April 19.—The steamer California arrived here this morning from the north. She reports having arrived at Sitka on the 1th and left the next day with forty passengers, 50,000 feet of lumber and 100 cases of giant powder for the Takou mine. She anchored at Harrisburg on the 11th. The new mining district is still covered with snow, which is from 6 to 10 feet deep. Two tons of ore were blasted out on the Fitz lode, which will be forwarded to San Francisco for reduction. A steam launch from the United States ship Jamestown, arrived at Harrisburg on the 13th for the purpose of surveying and visiting the Chilcat tribe of Indians. The California left Takou on the 12th and met the steamer Grappler bound north, on the 14th. Some claims have been jumped in the new mines, in the total absence of any laws in the district, and some trouble is expected. There are two hundred miners at Harrisburg awaiting the disappearance of the snow.

The Weather at Sitka.

Following is the last report of meteorological observations ever made at Sitka, as received from the signal officer at that place: From March 30th to April 8th, averages prevailing wind north, average prevailing weather cloudy, highest temperature 52, lowest 31, highest mean daily barometer 30.27, lowest 29.99; highest velocity of wind 44 miles, north-east, average velocity about 10 miles per hour.

Situation and Character of the Takou Mines.

Private advices received from Harrisburg give the following information: The mines are situated about one hundred miles north of Fort Wrangel and about the same distance from Sitka, but more easterly, from the latter place and about five miles from the Takou river on what is called [illegible] creek. The creek is [illegible] miles in length and runs in a northerly direction, emptying into the salt water about [illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Harrisburg [illegible] The assays [illegible] [illegible] There are no places [illegible] except [illegible] [illegible] to $7 [illegible] per day to the man. No prospecting can take place for a month or more on account of the snow, which is 12 feet deep in some places.

The California left for Portland at 7 A. M.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.

HARRISBURG (Linn county), April 18, 1881.

At o'clock A. M., on Saturday, the 16th inst., Mr Alexander Sommerville died at his residence in this place, of congestion of the liver, after an illness of but two weeks duration.

The deceased was born in Fleming county, Ky., December 15th, 1810, from whence he removed with with his father's family in 1830 to Edgar county, Ill. He married Elizabeth Stevenson in that place who still survives him, and with his family and numerous relatives came to Oregon in the great tide of immigration in 1853 locating with his brother, Joe Sommerville on land about five miles east of this place. His brother still retains his original claim, but "Ell," as he was familiarly called, sold his claim some years ago to the late Hon. H. R. Grimes, and moved into Harrisburg.

He was an upright influential citizen, always foremost in all laudable undertakings, a charter member of Thurston Lodge No. 28, A. F. & A. M., and also of Harrisburg Chapter, dating his Masonic membership back to 1833 in Illinois. He held at the time of his death the office of deputy sheriff.

The esteem with which he was held by his fellow citizens was evinced by the largest funeral gathering that ever assembled in this vicinity. He was buried with the appropriate and imposing ceremonies of the Masonic ritual, by Thurston Lodge, assisted by brethren from the neighboring lodges of Junction City, Brownsville and [illegible], conducted by D. E. Mason, W. M. of St. John's lodge, Albany. Appropriate preamble and resolutions were drafted by a committee appointed by the W. M., reported and adopted by Thurston lodge on its return from the funeral services.

Mr. Sommerville leaves a widow and four children, four [illegible] having preceded him to the grave. His youngest daughter, Mrs. Miller was present at his death. His son E. J. Sommerville of [illegible], was telegraphed for at an early date, and hastened home, but failed in making connection at [illegible], and arrived too late for the funeral. The two remaining children, John Sommerville of the firm of Sommerville & Brevman of [illegible] and Mrs. [illegible] of the same place, [illegible] [illegible].

PITTSBURG LANDING.

THE FIELD OF SHILOH SINCE THE WAR.

Talks with the People near the Great Battle-Ground—A Torn and Relic-strewn Forest—How the Southerners Look Upon the Results of the War—Ignorance of National Politics—Character of the Country Around Pittsburg Landing.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune.

I have just been over the battle-field of Pittsburg Landing and much of the surrounding country. It is all very interesting to me, though anything written about it now must be dull compared with a well-remembered description of the place, and of the great battle which made it famous. The distance from Corinth, Miss., to Pittsburg Landing is eighteen, twenty, or twenty-two miles, according to the judgment of the Corinthian livery-stable keepers, as to what they can make a traveler believe and pay. I wished to make the journey on foot, but there is too much water for that. I was fortunate in securing an old Hibernian as driver. He has lived here many years, and has seen much of life in this region from the point of view of a hard-working, [illegible], shrewd farmer and trader.

We took dinner the first day with a Tennessee farmer who lives near the spot where the battle commenced. It happened that a number of women from the neighborhood—that is, anywhere within ten miles—were visiting the woman of the house. Two or three farmers also called. All were invited to the long table, and all sat down together. We had a lively talk, with rapid questioning and answering on both sides. The women were rather shy and reserved at first, but both men and women soon talked freely and cordially. Two or three of the men had been in the battle, on the rebel side; and one of the neighboring farmers had been a Union soldier, having settled in this region since the war. They asked at once if I was in this battle on the Union side. I said no, but that some of my relatives were, and that I was in the Union army further east. Then all seemed to wish to entertain me, and to make my visit to the place as interesting to me as possible. They told me many stories of the fight and of the camp, and what the common soldiers said and thought of everything. They were of the opinion that their officers—the southern generals—managed better than ours at the beginning of the fight; that some of our men were surprised, some of them at breakfast, some in bed. A confederate officer in Corinth, who was in the advance in the morning, told me that he distinctly heard the calling of the roll in the companies which formed our line just in front of him, and this was but a moment before the attack was begun. But the northern men could fight, they said, even if they were surprised.

SOUTHERN VIEWS OF THE FIGHT.

All these people still seem profoundly impressed by the awfulness of the struggle and the terrific character of the fighting here. At many places which they mentioned, they said one could walk all over the ground on dead men. I asked the women how it seemed during the battle. One family lived between the lines. They took shelter under the bluff along the river, and stayed there till the battle was over. Then their house was full of wounded men, and they could not return for some time. The others lived farther in the rear, some miles away from the heaviest fighting. They said the sound of the small arms was a continuous roar, like the sound of an approaching hurricane, kept up through the whole day, and that the cannon made a "boom, boom, boom, boom," like the thunder rolling and clapping all the time. One woman said very seriously: "If it wasn't wicked to say such things, you couldn't tell it any better than to say it sounded like as if hell was open over there toward the river." They thought their officers made a mistake in not pressing the battle that first evening. But they thought Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman had a line of heavy batteries all along the river. A Union officer was captured and carried before Gen. Beauregard, who asked him about these batteries, but he merely said: "General, you may be assured that Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman are able commanders; they know their business, and whatever is necessary has been attended to." Then they thought that perhaps the death of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston made a great deal of difference. General Beauregard was not a great general, and he had never seen a battle-ground. The fight ought to have been finished up before Gen. Buell's men had time to get over.

I thought they had a pretty intelligent idea of matters connected with the battle. They all went on—as the southern people do everywhere, so far as I have seen them, the masses and the most intelligent—to say that it was all for the best. It was to be so; it was fated to be so, it was Providence; but it was very hard for the people all that time. What ours left the others took. The women said: "It got so we would just as soon see one side as the other. They took all we had. They had to." All the men said: "It was a great blessin' that the war put an end to slavery. It's a great deal better for the country, for the people to have to work for their own livin'." The element of humor came in, as I observe it generally does when we talk about the war and the relations between the north and the south. One old woman, a grandmother, to whom all deferred, asked me: "Don't you think you ought to pay us for our things that was destroyed, and what the soldiers took? You whipped us, and we was left with nothin' at all." "No," said I, "if you had whipped us, the confederate government would have paid you for all your losses, I suppose. But when we go to war, the defeated side does not get paid!" She smiled and said: "Well, it's all over now, and no doubt it's better as it is."

ON THE BATTLEGROUND.

Going on after dinner we reached Pittsburg Landing at 4 o'clock. I was welcomed by Captain Doolittle, who has charge of the National cemetery there. Taking a pair of mules we rode about the cemetery till after nightfall, calling on some of the people who live on the battle field, and visiting various places of interest. The whole region is covered with rather open oak forest. The trees are everywhere for miles torn and splintered by cannon shot. Some of the trees still have cannon balls in them. Many have been cut out by relic hunters. Rifle balls are still picked up everywhere. Walking over the battle field and finding a bullet now and then, I picked up the head of an Indian arrow, or dart, a relic, I suppose, of a still earlier battle. The road up the bluff from the river, "made that night by Buell's men" to quote the expression commonly used here, is still a good one, except that it is now overgrown with trees and saplings. I walked up its entire length, finding many old canteens, pieces of belts, shoes and ammunition boxes. Some of the leather is still tough and flexible. As I went on, seeing more and more of what remains as sign and memorial of the terrible conflict fought out here, the reality came back more and more distinctly; and as the night came on all the sounds about me seemed to resemble and suggest those of a battle or the preparation for it. I seemed to hear again the tramp, tramp of the soldiers, the noises of embarking and disembarking, the trundling of the guns, the handling of ammunition, the sound of picks and shovels, the movements of the boats, the order given now and then in suppressed tones, and, through all the night the pounding of gun-boats, and the whistling of shot and shell scurrying and screaming through the trees toward the enemy. And ah! out there in the dark forest the thousands of wounded, with their pain and weariness and thirst. I found that the sounds of a battle still seem to linger in my ears, exactly as in the old army days after a fight.

THE GRAVES OF THE FALLEN.

The cemetery is kept in beautiful order and is a very attractive and lovely spot. Nearly 4,000 union dead lie here. About two-thirds of the graves are marked as unknown. Every day the flag of our one country floats high, in sight of all, above them. When I awoke the next morning and looked out over the thousands of graves, and saw the flag touched by the first rays of the sun, Theodore O'Hara's fine lines came into my mind:

On Fame's eternal camping-ground,
Their silent tents are spread.
And Glory guards with solemn round,
The bivouac of the dead.

Every year on Decoration Day thousands of people assemble here to see these graves strewn with flowers, and hear an address by some distinguished orator. The oration is always patriotic in a high, fraternal sense, and is thus conciliatory and practical. It is always listened to with the closest attention by multitudes of the natives of the surrounding country, and Captain Doolittle told me that he had often seen "rebels and union" men shedding tears together under the inspiration of patriotic appeal and memory. There can be no doubt, I think, that in the hands of suitable [illegible] these national cemeteries are centres of [illegible] as in line of education for the [illegible] around them. They should be properly [illegible] and liberally maintained. I have recently seen the one at Chattanooga and the one here at Corinth. It is to be regretted that the government owns so small a piece of ground at Pittsburg Landing, only [illegible] acres, I believe. It would be much better if, in all such cases, the government had possession of some territory outside of the cemetery, so as to be able to keep its approaches and walls free from offensive surroundings [illegible] of disagreeable habitations and [illegible]. The time may come when some [illegible] of these grounds, or rights, outside of the walls of these cemeteries may come to be a [illegible] inconvenience to the government and [illegible] having charge of the [illegible] may be situated, whether [illegible] southern states.

The old Shiloh church on the battle field was, as is well known, demolished soon after the battle, and all its timbers, it is said, were cut up and carried away as relics of the historic spot. The lumber for a new building is on the ground, and it will soon be erected. Near this place we found remnants of blue army clothing under the leaves and surface soil, and I was told that such remains are still visible on various parts of the field. The graves of rebel soldiers are everywhere, and as many of these were very shallow, the bones are now above ground. We saw these at various places in the woods. It is probable that, except when the skulls are visible, the people of the neighborhood suppose these to be bones of horses. If they knew them to be human bones they would probably re-inter them. In many places the shallow, irregular trench made for drainage around a rebel tent is still to be traced, and in spots of earth covered with a luxuriant growth of briars and shrubs mark the places of the ghastly heaps which in time of battle are always formed near the tables of the surgeons.

TUESDAY, April 19.

The European market, as shown by our dispatches, is in good tone, although no advances are noted. Here prices are unchanged and business continues dull. The outside price for good shipping wheat is $1 50 per cental.

The Ellerbank is still waiting for [illegible] with no offers.

Receipts for the 24 hours ended at noon to-day Wheat—3028 sacks; flour, 2282 sacks.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, April 19.—There is no improvement to note in the clipper freight market, which remains rather quiet although ships of both lines are doing fairly for the season. Rates are somewhat easy for heavy goods and $8 per ton may be quoted as the top rate, measurement goods. Isthmus freights continue very dull. In fact shippers do not pretend to ship by this route on account of arbitrary rates.

The merchandise markets, although quiet are somewhat firmer.

Wheat opened ½@1c higher on speculation, but the whole advance and one-half more was soon lost.

Barley—Dull, lower, whole range [illegible] Canada about 95c@$1 15; no state offered.

Provisions—Dull; pork 16@15. Lard 12½@15 cts. lower.

Rio Coffee—Moderately active, firmer.

Refined Sugars—Good demand and firm.

Turpentine—Active, 2¼c higher.

Petroleum—Quiet, easy.

Crude Oils—Unchanged; recent sales arctic whale at New Bedford were effected.

THE BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, April 19.—There is no change in wool. Manufacturers are purchasing only small lots although the aggregate sales foot up a fair average. We continue to quote Ohio and Pennsylvania X 40@41; XX 41@42; medium and No. 1 [illegible]. Wisconsin and Michigan X 38@40. Combing and delaine fleeces are quiet and steady at 45@48. Fine delaine, 45@47; fine and medium combing 35@40c. Low and coarse unwashed combing has been selling at [illegible] as to quality. In unwashed fleece there is no change and Cala. wools remain moderate at 35@36c for fall and spring. Pulled wools are in steady demand and have been selling at [illegible] for common and good supers, [illegible] for choice and fancy lots. In foreign wool nothing of any consequence has been done. Montevideo has been sold at [illegible] per pound.

San Francisco Produce Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Potatoes, higher, Petalumas and Tomales, $1 25@1 45; Early Rose, [illegible]; new Rose, Humboldt reds, $1 40; do peachblows, $1 50@1 75; do kidneys, [illegible].

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, April 19.—Breadstuffs quiet and steady; wheat, [illegible], average Cala. white, [illegible]. Receipts, wheat since last report 417,000, including 340,000 American.

Gold and Stock Reports.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.

Receipts—Wheat 11,000 [illegible]; flour 5000 [illegible] sks, oats, [illegible] potatoes, 1500 sacks; eggs, [illegible] dozen.

Wheat—Transactions limited; [illegible] slight, [illegible] small lots extra choice milling sold today at $1 [illegible]; sales of 50 tons [illegible] shipping, [illegible]. We quote the market the same as before.

Oats—Offerings fair, buyers are holding off, we quote choice and extra choice feed $1 [illegible].

Barley—Demand good for feed, but buyers' views are below sellers'. Ten tons [illegible] feed sold at [illegible]. We quote at previous rates.

Corn—Small yellow, $1 [illegible]; large yellow, $1 [illegible].

Potatoes—Market cannot be said to show the least sign of improvement for seed varieties. Sales of Chili garnets, [illegible], early rose, [illegible], Humboldt red, $1 [illegible].

Hides—The market is unchanged.

Salmon—Columbia river, no sales, small lots offering at $1 20 for export here, and at [illegible] home consumption.

Eggs—The market is well supplied. Prices favor buyers. Quote choice fresh California, 25c.
